GO TO THE RESCUE.

Don't Wait till it's Too Late—Follow the Example of a Norway Citizen.

Rescue the aching back. If it keeps on aching, trouble comes. Backache is kidney ache. If you neglect the kidneys' warning, Look out for urinary trouble—diabetes.

This Norway citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.

Oscar I. Pitts, living on Cottage street, Norway, Me., says: "Several years ago I began to suffer from an acute attack of kidney trouble. I had caught a severe cold which settled on my kidneys and brought on terrible pains in the small of my back. There seemed to be a congestion of my kidneys and it was only with great difficulty that I was able to pass the secretions. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, and deciding to try them, procured a box from Stone's drug store, and began their use. They helped me from the first, and after using a few boxes I was cured of the attack and have not had any trouble with my kidneys since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement."

Written for the Advertiser. Pumpkin Pie.

Take away your fancy puddings with their highly flavored sauces, And your rainbow-colored ices, all so tempting to the eye, And your cakes of many flavors crowned with treasures of light and roses.

Like the flowers of war, our parlors used to be in danger of being invaded by these delicious pies. For these pies are not in it for a minute, when beside them

La! a delicious and yellow, thick and luscious, we essay, And we reach with eager longing and the appetite of a glutton.

For a creamy golden segment of delicious pumpkin pie.

All the dreams of home and mother that the dust of years have covered, While, as Fortin's battered football we were always on the fly.

Come to soothe our ruffled spirits with the vision of a farmhouse.

In a green and quiet valley and beneath the cloudless sky?

There the big round pumpkins ripened in the sunny fields of autumn, And we watched the stems each morning till we found them brown and dry.

Then we plucked the globes in triumph, and we bore them to the kitchen.

We were they soon were sliced and ready to be baked in pumpkin pie.

Of the Briton loves plum-pudding, and the Irishman loves his colcannon, And for sauer kraut and sausage does the exiled Celt in Dublin.

And the dish of macaroni pleases most the dark Italian, While for bowls of oatmeal porridge all the Scottish babies cry.

But to every son of Freedom, whether born in the East or the West, Or beyond the rugged Rockies or the proud Sierra high, Or among the cane and cotton and magnolias down in Dixie,

There is nothing quite so "tasty" as a piece of pumpkin pie.

MINA IRVING.

Written for the Advertiser. A Thanksgiving Pean.

Dark hangs the clouds in winter's sky, Wearily moans the wind through the tree-tops

And the earth seems dead and wrapped in mold 'neath a canopy blanket white and cold.

Memory wanders to days of yore, To festive seasons seeks the light to see, And doubts and fears rise before us as a wall, My waiting spirit droops and all but falls.

Yet life is ours, though seemingly bleak; Ours to improve as becometh men; God has placed his signet, and knoweth best, So strive to do his bidding to become his kin.

God's love is boundless, endless as the tide; His strength sustains all who call in need, I feel would find life in Him who died.

His peaceful bliss though mine own heart died.

Kind Father we owe all to Thee, Our lives, our hopes by Thy dear Son were given, So death, though certain portion be to me, My glory, crown, my all, shall end in Heaven.

Amos, Me. C. S. BARLETT.

Just Before Christmas.

Soon the Christmas bells will ring, And we'll hear the children sing; Sing of Him who while on earth, Was of low and humble birth.

Sing of Him, our Heavenly Gift, While to Him our praises we lift, Sing the song of "Peace on earth," Sing of Him of lowly birth.

Pray that He will come and reign, Banish sin and grief and pain, Pray His will on earth be done, That we win and share His throne.

Oh children sing this song so sweet, That we may sit at Jesus' feet, That in Heaven we find our home, And in sadness no more roam.

Boston Baked Beans.

A Record of 32,000,000 Quarts a Year, at a Cost of Over $8,000,000.

Boston baked beans are known around the globe. In the city of Boston alone about thirty-two million quarts of baked beans are devoured annually, to say nothing of the pork that goes with them and the brown bread that is also served.

There are factories or bakeries which handle nothing but baked beans from one year's end to the other. One of the largest of these, which supplies restaurants wholly, bakes fourteen thousand quarts of beans a week. Other bakeries also furnish brown bread, while nearly every bakery that makes bread, pastry and pies, also bakes beans several times a week.

There are bakeries with ovens that will hold two thousand quarts each. In 1904 Boston spent about $8,247,842 for beans before they were baked.

There were 68,000 barrels received in the city, which, on the weight basis, was 15,000 pounds more than were used in 1903. Each year's consumption has been steadily increasing, until 1908 will find the bean bill of the Hub close to the ten million mark.

On the basis of about 600,000 population, this is an average of about thirty-seven quarts to an individual.

Taking the average height of a Bostonian as five feet six inches and the height of a bean pot as ten inches, one can easily figure that a Bostonian in a year eats more than three times as many beans as his own height in baked beans, and more than his own weight.

There are twelve plates of beans served in restaurants from each pot of two quarts. Boston pays for baked beans in a year the price of two of Uncle Sam's modern battleships.

Dwellers in Little Italy and the Ghetto of the West End take as kindly to baked beans as do the natives of New England.

In fact, baked beans possess a charm for people of all nationalities who go to live in Boston, permanently or temporarily. Every time a convention is held there people from all parts of the country make a dash for the nearest restaurant and call for some of the baked beans of which they have heard so much.

One baked bean is considered to be an Italian quarter turn out one thousand, daily, entirely for Italian consumption.

The preparation and baking of beans is an interesting operation. In establishments where beans only are baked it is done on a huge scale. There are great kettles that hold two or three bushels of beans and into these the beans are put to soak and parboil. Then the pots of earthenware, varying in size from one quart to two gallons, are ranged around on tables and filled from the big kettles.

Every quart of beans is carefully weighed over and sorted and cleaned of all dirt and "dead" beans before being put into the kettles. The ovens are huge brick affairs, glowing red with heat. Experts consider that beans cannot be properly cooked except in a thick oven. Some of the ovens hold two thousand quarts each. Filled with the loaded pots, they present a sight worth beholding. So hot are the ovens that long-handled flat shovels are used to take the big pots in and out.

The following recipe is considered to be the best for baked beans: To one quart of beans, pea beans or mediums, yellow eyes, kidney or other variety, use one pound of pork (lean pork, lean and streaks, with a solid piece of fat on top); two tablespoonsful of molasses; salt as needed. Fill the pot of beans with hot water and bake all day, adding hot water as it evaporates from the top, keeping the top fairly well covered with water. The pork should be cut in halves, one piece being placed in the middle of the beans, half way down, and the other half on top. Some people put an onion in the middle of the beans. Sometimes a little mustard is added, if desired.

Interesting Sketches Promised.

Please find enclosed a postoffice order for the ADVERTISER for one year. When visiting last August near Lovell Center saw a copy of your paper and thinking I might want to subscribe for it I wrote the name in my diary. While on my way home to the far West I saw another copy at a cousin's (a former Lovell girl) at Audubon, Iowa, and at once made up my mind that as soon as I reached my home at South Dakota, I would send in my subscription and here it is.

Personally I have little interest except in localities where I have friends. Fryeburg, Lovell, Sweden, Bridgton, Center, and I found news from all those places. From the time I was six years old till I was twenty-three my home was in Lovell and it occurred to me that a short sketch of the people I know who have gone out in the world to gain fame and fortune would be of interest to the ADVERTISER readers.

Short Oxford County Stories.

Uncle Ike Andrews of Lovell, though dead many years ago, still lives in the memory of Lovell people because of the hundreds of his quaint and witty sayings which are repeated from generation to generation in that section of Oxford County. One night at supper, Uncle Ike generously buttered his slice of skimmilk cheese (that being the brand of cheeses oftenest found on ordinary farm tables in those days. As he parted the butter on the solid chunk, he said coaxingly: "Come together, now. Ye never ought to ha' been parted!"

One day Uncle Ike was preparing to leave home to be gone over night. To his son Joe he said in parting:

"Be a good boy, and do up the shores, Joe. If you will, I'll come home good naturally toward ye, now. If ye don't, I'll lick ye when I get home! And I know ye won't, so I'll lick ye now," and he did so most heartily.

Frank Martin, a Rumford Falls young man, is a most original, and, oftentimes, an extremely quick-witted Yankee.

One day, after a bit of dirty work on the street in his own town, he hurried into the office of a friend, and said to him: "Well, I guess I'll finish up, 's long's I've begun," and he did.

But the next day he returned to the office, and, finding the hotel proprietor the centre of a group of traveling men, he put a wooden pail of water down before him saying:

"Here, Mr. Ames, here's your soap and water that I used yesterday!"

FRYEBURG ACADEMY.

Rev. Edgar Crossland lectured before the students of the Academy, Thursday evening on the subject, "Experiences in Africa." The lecture was one of the best ever heard in Academy Hall.

Crossland was for several years a mining expert in Africa and at the time of the Boer war he was one of the last to leave the Mine by order of the Boer soldiers.

During the war he fought in the English Army. He described the first hand knowledge, the methods of diamond and gold mining and the resources of the country. He drew a sad picture of the ignorance of the natives and pointed out the ways which they are being molested by the white people. On Friday morning gave a ten minute talk on "The Open Door."

Many of the students attended the old fashioned spelling match at the Congregational vestry. The prize of one dollar was won by Annie Hill.

The men who compose the Glee Club that will make its first appearance at the Academy Fair, Dec. 3rd, are Newman, Jordan, Elia, Hutchings, Andrews, Keen, Sanborn, Clark, Warren, and Bacon.

It seems to me a child can really get more enjoyment and certainly as much knowledge out of birds and insects of one sort or another if they intent to preserve their lives is strictly adhered to in his pursuit of them. In the observance of the habits of living things is true enjoyment and the source of helpful broadening knowledge concerning life. Let a child rob a bird's nest, of its eggs or catch a butterfly and attach it to a card by the means of a pin and you destroy to a certain degree his finer sensibilities and the consideration which should be engendered in him toward all things weaker than himself at east. A child who is encouraged to rob nests and destroy the lives of insects soon develops the collection habit beyond the real love of Nature. The true way is to open his eyes and also his mind to the worth of everything that breathes and show him it fits into the scheme of the Universe in its small but nevertheless important way.

The last of the idle paper making machine in the mill of the International Paper Co., Rumford Falls, was started Wednesday. There are nine in operation, employing a full crew. The Continental Paper Bag mill, which has been handicapped by a shortage in its supply of paper, furnished by the International Paper mill, will start on full time as soon as sufficient supply is on hand. This will be within a few days.

Have One Doctor

No sense in running from one doctor to another. Select the best one, then stand by him. Do not delay, but consult him in time when you are sick. Ask his opinion of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds. Then use it or not, just as he says.

We publish our formulas. We bank stock from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

Many Deer Killed.

Deer abound in great numbers around here and many are being slaughtered. So far 24 have been killed on and near the R. F. D. route. Fred Ward killed the largest one Saturday. His antlers were 15 points and he was judged to weigh 300 pounds. There have not been many casualties from gunning yet. We understand one man was shot up the line Thursday. He was rising a hill when another hunter saw his head and thinking it was a deer, fired. The bullet entered his mouth passing through his head.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

He is a wise man who knows his neighbor's weakness and steers himself clear of it.

The interest that a few, a very few, people take in life is largely represented by the coupons they clip.

Popularity is a tiresome thing, but not many of us are wearied that way.

The world owes us a living, but getting a receipted bill for it is worse than earning it straight out.

Sympathy seems to have a wonderful affinity for a dollar, and that probably is the reason it always tends in the direction of the man that wears the dollar mark.

He is a smart man who can give a good excuse, and he is a smarter one who can get past without any sort of excuse.

The best way to cure a cold is not to get one.

Doctors never disagree—upon the size of the bill.

A man's wealth may be guessed at not by the size of the bills he owes, but by the size of the bills he pays.

ALBANY.

Mrs. Sumner Hutchinson.

The people of Albany were much surprised last Tuesday to learn of the death of Aunt Betsey Hutchinson, as she is generally called by her neighbors, who was enjoying her usual health on Monday and went to the door in the afternoon to look at a deer that one of the neighbors had shot and dragged out to their house, but in the evening was taken with severe pain and soon lost all consciousness. She rallied enough to speak on Tuesday but at 5 p. m. she fell asleep in the arms of Josiah in whom she had placed her faith fully for many years.

In the year 1818 Timothy Hutchinson, Esq., moved from Massachusetts to Albany into the old Tavern stand now known as the Hunt hotel, at Hunt's Corner. From there he moved to the southeast part of the town and cleared up a farm on the road to North Norway and the last lot in Albany, where he spent his last days in comfort with his youngest son, Emerson Sumner Hutchinson, who was born in December, 1822.

When he was 23 years of age he brought Betsey Pingree, a daughter of William Pingree of Norway, to his home, June 13, 1845, as a bride to brighten his home and aid in the struggle of life. To them were born three daughters and one son. The oldest daughter married John E. Sanders and lived in Mechanic Falls until five years ago when she was taken from earth. Orinda married W. S. Herrick and has been a support for her father and mother for many years, caring for them kindly in the old home. Lenella lives in Massachusetts with her brother but was with her parents on a visit. Ambrose, the only son, lives in Methuen, Mass., and only last week had the pleasure of visiting his mother and brother as usual.

Aunt Betsey was born Oct. 14, 1824. She and Uncle Sumner had spent over 60 years of married life together but she has gone from those that she loved, and will be missed by those who knew her best.

Her burial took place from her old home Thursday, Nov. 19th. Uncle Sumner is tenderly cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Herrick at 80 years of age. He stands patiently waiting for the angel ferryman to convey him over the river to the better land.

In the Border Land.

A Maine Yankee Tells of Canada; the Land and People.

Our Canadian "cousins" are indeed a fine and progressive people. I speak of those on Ontario along the west shore of the great lake, who I lived with them in their land of plenty all the past summer. They like to have the Yankees with them. They would like to have them come into the country and be citizens and help develop their land of rich resources.

Along the Grand Trunk railway, from Beausville through to Toronto is situated the garden of Canada, abounding in grapes, berries, pears, plums, cherries and peaches.

The farmers and fruit raisers in the locality are prosperous. Why? The land contains from four to eight inches of black loam and clay soil which at some time formed the bottom of Lake Ontario.

They plough about four to six inches of this, cut it well with a disc-harrow and set out berries. These bear the second year, so do grapes, such as Concord and Niagara. Pear trees grow rapidly and bear second, third and fourth year from the time they are planted. The best crops are grapes and peaches. Crawford peaches grow to enormous size and the flavor is extra fine. They are very juicy.

The grapes such as Niagara, Concord and Rogers are fine yielders—the Niagara being the best. The clusters grow large and the grapes are of a clear and large with a fine flavor—as good as those grown in California. The fruit growers of Ontario cannot supply the demand for plums in the Canadian markets; there is always a cry for more. Plums grow well in the section. Pears do fairly well when properly cared for and the blight is kept well out of the pear tree in Ontario is a good producer but short lived on account of the blight. Up to now, no cure for this disease among the pear trees has been discovered. Many experiments have been tried but with no practical or successful results.

The pear tree will last from five to ten years and then die, but while it lives it pays for itself and good profits are derived. These are an enormous crop every year. The markets on all fruits are always good in Canada.

The real Canadians are strong, healthy and industrious but not strenuous, as we Americans are. They take time to eat, drink and sleep and are not in a hurry to get on with their business. They are kindhearted and cordial to strangers and like the American for his energy and power to push things. Large quantities of young Englishmen are sent into Canada out of London. These men are inexperienced at farm work and idlers at large in their home city. The real Canadians do not like them as a rule for they are not practical and cannot go ahead. Their training has not been of the kind that would make them good Canadians. Seldom is there a man who can adapt himself to the circumstances and he makes a good man and is appreciated. The Canadians like the Yankees for there is a broader and greater purpose in the Americans who are among them, than in Englishmen from the cities.—[Commercial.

The Christmas With a Heart in It.

A pretty Swedish custom, transplanted to our shores, is the Christmas evening gathering when the whole family, from the youngest to the oldest, with all the kith and kin obtainable thrown in, and every servant belonging to the establishment, meet as one family to welcome Christmas with prayer as well as feasting.

For weeks beforehand all the women are as busy as bees; for it is an unwritten law that all the refreshments should be home-made and prepared as cordial to old family recipes that have been used for generations. Among the good things provided are pig's head boiled whole, to be served with mustard; corned spare ribs, home-made head-cheese, all kinds of bologna, pickled herring, made very spicy; home-made cheese, home-made bread and suet-ricka, a temperance drink.

The lentfish is also to be made for the midnight dinner. Then the house is scrubbed until it shines, religious pictures are hung on the wall and the Christmas tree (and chandeliers) is hung and gaily decorated with ribbons and flowers. On one side of the room is placed the "sandwich table" covered with one of the best cloths and spread with all the cold viands that have been so liberally provided. About this, family and guests walk, gaily chatting and each one helping him or herself; this especially of the pig's head, from which each one is expected to cut a slice.

As the clock strikes midnight there is a solemn prayer, the grandfather or father reads a chapter from the Bible, and then all sit down to the dining table. This night supper is always the same—lentfish, served with mustard gravy and potatoes, and risgrjijnor or a peculiar preparation of ice served with milk.

Oxford County's Negro Farmer.

In 1898 a negro in the county of Oxford, Maine, was something of a curiosity (more so than in some other parts of the State, although an uncommon sight in the most frequented sections) and is today a strange sight to people in most parts of the State.

For nearly 40 years William Thomas has been a resident of Oxford county, and for a greater part of that time the only negro in the county. He has been living on a farm owned by Florus H. Bartlett at the Point, in the town of Rumford. He has worked on shares and is fairly successful.

He has spent 39 of the 45 years he has been in the North in that neighborhood, and has become so familiar a figure that those who have grown to manhood and womanhood since he first came to the place have many of them, never heard the story of his escape from a slave plantation and final arrival in Rumford in September, 1868.

Although without records to prove it, Mr. Thomas says he was born in May, 1848, on a plantation in the town of St. Joseph, in Tennessee, near Louisiana, on a plantation owned by Emile Jacob, a Frenchman. There were 25 slaves on the plantation, and nearly all were related. He and his fellow slaves were well treated, had good cabins and plenty to eat.

His recollections of the conditions among the slaves generally throughout the section that he knew, was much the same. Now and then he would hear of some plantation where abuse prevailed, and his idea is that the treatment given to the slaves corresponded to the character of the planter. A good and humane master never ill treated slaves, and an ill-natured one abused slaves and every other thing under his charge.

Thomas, with sixteen others, anticipated the emancipation proclamation by three months, by running away in October, 1862, and making their way down the river to within two miles of New Orleans, where they were taken in charge by Co. F. Twelfth Maine regiment, in command of Capt. Farrington, and Lieut. Charles Chase, both of Fryeburg. When the officers were satisfied that the fugitives came from a country in actual rebellion orders were given to protect them.

At this point in Mr. Thomas' story he said, "I've thought I'd done better if I'd never run off."

"Why do you think that?"
"Well, we had an awful time from Sunday to the next Sunday. We knew if we got caught we would be shot or half killed, and we kept in woods all day, and at night we had to make our way through the woods. We had no food, no shelter, no clothing, and we were all starved and cold. We didn't dare to give up, for we had broke in the jail and got a cousin of mine out, and let out all the other prisoners."

"What was your cousin in the jail for?"
"He had learned to read, and Mr. Jacobs had him put in jail for it," was the reply.

Mr. Thomas and his companions remained in this camp until December, when they were given in charge of Co. A. of the same regiment. They remained with the regiment until the fall of 1863.

All the companies of Thomas were enlisted in the army, but he, being but 15 years old, was treated as a boy and became a sort of errand boy for the officers.

His father, who was a white Frenchman and a Union man, was in the regiment commanded by Major G. A. Hastings of Bethel. Through this means Capt. Elisha Goddard of Rumford, whose home was on the east side of Ellis river in Rumford, learned of young Thomas and taking a liking to him, took the lad home with him in September, 1863.

From then until the present, Thomas has never heard a word from his folks, or any human being that he knew on the old plantation.

That winter was a severe one and the cold and the snow was so much that he spent the whole of it in the house and pretty close to the fire. Never since has he experienced any difficulty in the cold weather. Does not mind the severest winter weather any more than a person born and bred in the North.

For fifteen years he worked on the Goddard farm. When about 30 years old he bought a small farm on a back road about a mile from the Goddard farm. He paid something on it and gave a mortgage for the balance.

While living there he married a white woman by the name of Taylor. She was a widow. Three children, all boys, were born to them. One of them has died. After working nine years on the farm he brought it to a high state of cultivation, he lost it by failure to comply with the terms of the mortgage.

He then moved to Waterford, where his wife's folks lived. He resided there six years and then returned to Rumford, where he has since worked on farms either for himself or others.

The house that he lived in at Rumford Centre was destroyed by fire and he lost all of his furniture.
As a boy he was called "Napoleon" and is generally known as "Napoleon" Thomas.

French was the language spoken on the plantation where he was raised, and he can speak that language better than the English. As he peddles farm produce at Rumford Falls, where there are a great many French families, he has an advantage over some of his white competitors.

He says he would like to visit the old plantation and expects to do so some time.—Journal.

SOUTH WOODSTOCK.

A Successful Hunting Trip.
F. E. Davis, wife and son Ellis went on a day's hunting trip to Greenwood. They were in the woods 1 1/2 hours, securing a big buck deer weighing 200, having a set of antlers with 10 points, returning home the same day. The next morning they were met with a surprise when eighteen of their neighbors and friends called to see their prize. One single team drove in with twelve, the leader of this jolly party being the old veteran fisherman and sportsman, I. W. Andrews.

Mrs. Sarah Proctor is reported on the sick list.
Albert Thorne is sick at Bert Fuller's with the mumps.
Robert Whitman of Massachusetts is on a visit to his friends and relatives.

Mrs. I. W. Andrews and Eva Andrews went to Norway, Monday, on a shopping trip.
Mrs. Geo. Stevens and her father, G. G. Dow, of Durham called on the families of J. H. and W. S. Davis last week.

G. W. Davis and Bert Fuller returned from B Hill, Upton, where they have been for the past week on a hunting trip, with four deer, two 200 pound buck, one having six points and one eight. The other two were smaller.

Mrs. Nellie Brown's old family horse, "Eclair," has gone to greener pastures.

He got to kicking, presumably in the stall, run a nail into the hook joint so deep that the joint water run out and so they chloroformed him.

One snow which fell on Nov. 14 and 15 some four or five inches, made very good sleighing last week, so many had their first sleigh ride, but the warmer days of Saturday and Sunday have taken it off so, now, most all go on wheels.

Our Gratton people were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Will Powell, of Upton, who had many friends in this vicinity. His case seemed particularly sad as he leaves a wife and one small child; also, another, dependent on him for a home.

Irving Thompson's blacksmith had the misfortune to accidentally cut off one of his toes on Friday. He went to Bethel, Saturday morning. The cook, also, at the same place, was unfortunate in getting a fall which bruised and lamed him so severely that a physician was called.

One of our Gratton boys, Roland Thompson, aged thirteen, has learned the art of knitting and has knit his mittens for the past two winters, also a pair of gloves, and he has been so energetic in doing his work that he has taken it to school with him occasionally and there improved his little boy and the oldest child of a family of seven.

Leap Year Party.

The Leap Year Party which was given by the ladies of the Catholic church Friday evening at the Opera House was a very successful affair.

As is the custom at Leap Year Parties, the ladies paid the bills, which somewhat embarrassed some of the gentlemen; called for their "share" escorted them to supper and saw them safely home after the dance, thus changing the routine of things.

The first hour was given to a moving picture entertainment, with the pictures, "When the Rent Comes Due," "The Piano," "A Letter to Jesus," "Canada," and "A Robber's Sweetheart."

Stearns' Orchestra furnished the music for the dance. There were over fifty couples on the floor and each and all thoroughly enjoyed the dance.

At intermission the ladies took their partners to Horne's Cafe, where a supper was served to about one hundred and twenty. The dining room was lighted with colored lights giving a very pretty effect.

Baked Bean Supper.

"Baked beans, brown bread, white bread, doughnuts, cakes and pies of all kinds" was the menu served at the social Saturday evening at the hall, for the ladies at Frost Corner. Everyone who has ever attended one of these suppers at the Corner can vouch for the goodness of edibles, also for the good time that follows during the evening.

There were some thirty in the vicinity of 100 present at the supper. After the supper a social followed, with playing of games, music, etc. The Norway Lake orchestra, Mrs. Lottie Oran, organ, George Frost, violin and Donald Partridge, cello, furnished the music for the evening.

Edward D. Cole of Brookline, Mass., was in Norway the past week.

M. L. Kimball, a soldier in the Spanish war, has had a pension allowed.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Saunders of Mechanic Falls have been visiting in Norway.

The Lary brook, Gilead, hunters, Postmaster Akers and friends, failed to get a deer.

Examine the Intelligence Column each week. It's found on pages 6 and 8. It's worthy of your attention.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cullinan entertain the Cummings families this year at a Thanksgiving dinner.

Friday the roof cleaners commenced their winter's job. Many roofs in the village have to be cleaned of snow.

We want to do your job printing. Don't send it away or out of town. We do good work at reasonable prices as any one.

Howard Drake, clerk for H. J. Bangs, captured a deer in East Stoneham last week. It's so reported and we have every reason to believe it's so.

Grant Abbott and Carl Brown got a deer on their recent hunt. The buck probably weighed about 150 pounds and came from the Wild River valley.

If you want the World every other day for the year to come, you can have it in combination with this paper for $2.50. Sample copies furnished on application to this office.

J. B. Pike, of the law firm of Walker & Pike, Bridgton, returned the last of last week from a hunting trip in the Wild River valley. His wife and little son accompanied him and two deer were captured.

Uncle Zeke on Manners.

"Manners? I never had any manners!" declared Uncle Zeke, chancing to overhear a remark of his small grandson relating to the uselessness of learning nice manners. The Grandpa had "My mother was so busy getting something" for us to eat that she didn't have time to learn us any manners. It was a case of "gobble, gobble, and git" with us bet. I recollect that once upon a time, way back in '37, the folks of our town gave a picnic. "Twa'ta usual thing them days to give picnics, and I dessey the kids of the town were past holdin' the day or two before the great spread was to be. Of course, nothin' would do but, all us youngsters, from Jimmy the baby to Noah the sixteen-year-old must go. We didn't have much to wear, but we had on a wide smile so nobody noticed our brown jeans and bare feet.

We had a mighty good time right up to dinner, and all but me had a mighty good time after dinner. When it came time to open up the baskets, the women lined us up in three long rows, cross-legged, on the grass. Then they went up one row and down another passin' the baskets of victuals one after the other. Ma had told me the last thing that morning to be sure and remember my manners. Well, I didn't have any to start out with, but she told me that I must not take more of anything until I had eaten every crumb of what I had. So when the baskets began to move by, I shook my head at the bread—we had bread at home—and took a big piece of cake. Every basket after that I let pass, thinking to myself how wellmannered I was, and I kept several times to my nearest gobblers how impolite it was to take so much of anything all at once.

Well, when I had finished my cake, I looked around for something more. Now, what do you think? While I'd been polisher off my one piece of cake, the other kids had cleaned the spread. There wasn't so much as a crumb left! I tell you I felt small! I decided right then there that manners of my kind wasn't any good. If I couldn't learn the whole book of 'em I wouldn't learn nothin' of 'em. And I ain't had any manners since.

But times has changed, young Zeke. Manners is somethin' the youngsters of today can't get along without. It ain't hard for you to polish off rough spots now. An' I dessey that what you Ma told you this mornin' about politeness bein' "to do an' say the kindest thing in the kindest way, is the best rule you can go by."

Now hand me my pipe, young Zeke, and pump my cushion up some, and when you can get your Pa and me a mornin' paper has got to. It's so nice an' warm here in the porch, I guess I'll set a little bit longer. My rheumatiz don't bother much today."—(Transcript.)

FRYEBURG.

We regret to announce the removal of George R. Cameron and family to Norway.

Mrs. C. W. Pike took her daughter, Lillian, to the Eye and Ear Infirmary in Portland, for treatment of the throat.

Mrs. T. O. Eastman, who is at the St. Barnabas hospital, Portland, is getting along finely and we look for her speedy recovery.

Grover Post G. A. R. and Circle entertained Daniel A. Bean Post and Relief Corps of Brownfield. A fine dinner was served by the ladies, after which, the company was called to order by Comrade T. L. Eastman, who briefly welcomed the visitors. A hastily prepared program was carried out, consisting of singing of old war songs, speeches by the comrades and sisters. Among those who responded at their names were Comrades A. R. Hill, John W. Gray, Poor and Rowe of Brownfield; Comrades Smart, John L. Eastman and Goldthwait of Grover Post. The ladies were not backward in speech making, and remarks were made by Mrs. A. R. Hill, Messrs. Gray, Johnson, Poor, Phillips and Tarbox; Mrs. D. A. Bradley sang a solo which was appreciated by the old boys. Mrs. C. W. Pike presided at the organ and she proved a good musical director.

He Lived at West Lovell.

Jeremiah Harriman was born in Conway, N. H., July 7, 1844, and passed away at home on artist Falls street, North Conway, N. H., Nov. 3, after an illness of one hour. He was the son of Moses and Mary (Gale) Harriman. When only a boy his parents moved to West Lovell, and the first 35 years of his life were spent in Maine and New Hampshire.

In 1878 he married M. Elizabeth Mason (deceased) by whom he had two children, Emma, wife of Mark Ross of Chocoma (and who died some years ago) and Drusilla, wife of Walter Sawyer, now living at Center Conway.

More than 20 years ago he married Mary E. Henley of Peabody, Mass., who survives him. For nearly four years he had been blind.

The funeral was at his late home on Friday, Rev. B. W. Brotherton officiating. The Congregational choir rendered appropriate selections. Only a few of his immediate family were present, among whom were Mr. Ross, son and daughter, Mrs. Sawyer and family. Mrs. S. P. Froctor of Norway and Mrs. Brown widow of the late Dr. T. S. Brown of Denmark, both sisters of the deceased, John Harriman of Tamworth, Mr. Tibbets of Malden, Mass., and other more distant relatives.

Cumberland and Oxford Union Pomona Grange held its 94th session with Fryeburg Grange, Nov. 5th, with a fairly good attendance. The degree of Pomona was conferred in full upon a class of 12 in the forenoon. At noon the usual good Grange dinner was served.

The afternoon session was opened at 1.30, when the subordinate Granges reported with the exception of Maple Grove and Crystal Spring Granges. In the afternoon the Lecturer's hour was opened with music by the orchestra, and readings which were much enjoyed.

The topic for discussion was, "What legislation should be passed during the coming session of the Legislature for the benefit of the farmers?" Opened by the Lecturer and generally discussed. Among others, B. W. McKee spoke ably and to the point. Good roads and better packing of fruits were the special acts desired. The next session will be with West Baldwin Grange, Dec. 3d, when the annual election will take place.

Among the speakers of the junior class for the Ivy day toasts at Bates college are "Sociability," Roy Emerson Cole of South Paris; "The Powers That Be," Paul Bryan Thurston of Bethel, Morton Virgin Bolster of South Paris has been chosen class orator; Charles Elmer Merrill of South Paris has been elected manager of the Bates Student for 1909, and one of the assistant editors, Cleora DeCoster of Buckfield.

This woman says she was saved from an operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lena V. Henry, of Norristown, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I suffered untold misery from female troubles. My doctor said an operation was the only chance I had, and I dreaded it almost as much as death.

"One day I read how other women had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was better, and now I am entirely cured.

"Every woman suffering with any female trouble should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

A Pumpkin Pie Romance.

Its Empire Begins in Maine and Runs Westward.

The northern limit of Maine's pumpkin pie zone is at Bangor, or a few miles south of 45 degrees north latitude. From here to the New Hampshire line on the south and west the intensity of the worship bestowed upon pumpkin pie increases, and it keeps on gaining through central New England and sweeps westward through New York until it is along the shores of the Great Lakes.

Residents of Maine have different tastes regarding the common articles of food. Those who live among the islands prefer fresh cod to venison, while in Kennebec and Waldo counties the apple is the standard of excellence, holding a higher rank than the pear or the peach. The farmers of Aroostook will eat baked potatoes and milk sooner than bread and butter, and over around Penobscot and the great lakes the held in higher honor than strawberries and cream. But nowhere in the pumpkin pie belt is there anybody who pretends that the combination of colandered and boiled pumpkin with fresh milk, eggs and some other ingredients is not the last word in refined cookery.

At many of the Maine country hotels pumpkin pie is listed on the bills of fare as "pie," the prefix or descriptive term being left off as if it were taken for granted that when pumpkin pie or custard pie or some other kind is not named all pie must be pumpkin pie.

The annual pumpkin season on pumpkins is during the full moon of October, when all citizens are permitted to run down and capture as many pumpkins as they can carry home. Though pumpkin vines are celebrated for their numerous abilities any ordinary person of sense can overtake a ripe pumpkin without getting short of breath, after which he may use his pumpkin as a stool and carry it away after he has recovered his wind.

To get the natural pumpkin into fit condition to become pumpkin pie the vegetable must be divaricated and peeled. It is then sliced into a thin spiral and hung on a pole or a stout cord above the family cook stove until it has dried and shrunken 75 per cent. in weight, when it is packed away in airy bags and waits for the cold days, when the skim milk freezes instead of souring.

It is then that the shrunken spirals of pumpkin meat are soaked out and swelled in warm milk and the eggs, ginger and molasses are added, and the resultant mixture is poured into the waiting pie crust and baked in a quick oven above a wood fire. No cook, however gifted she may be, was ever able to secure a standard pumpkin pie from a range heated by coal.

After cooking pumpkin pies may be frozen up and stored in cold lofts to await the coming of the minister or other distinguished company, and when in this condition a pie will keep in perfect safety and as sweet and toothsome as when taken from the oven, until the robins of spring are flitting through the leafless trees.

Pumpkin pie is also the ready solvent and crowning glory of every picked up dinner. No matter if the meal be porridge and salt codfish, of Johnnycake and molasses or hasty pudding and milk, if a slice of pumpkin pie, like the best wine, is reserved for the end, the happiness of him who eats is assured.

Nobody who makes a practice of eating pumpkin pie regularly was ever known to suffer from dyspepsia or to desert his wife, or whip his children or use profane language, or wear tight boots or to come home drunk or disorderly, the president in an open letter to pumpkin pie every month in the year is an indication of great wealth, while to refuse a slice of pumpkin pie is a mark of churlish temper and ill breeding.

As the farmers of the United States do not appear to take interest enough in the uplift of rural life to answer the letters which President Roosevelt's commission on country life are sending out broadcast, the president in an open letter this week suggests that on the evening of December 6th, the farmers should gather in grange halls, schoolhouses and other convenient places, compare notes and afterwards inform the commission what they want most to improve the conditions of rural life. The verdict of Maine farmers will doubtless be: We want rain enough to fill up our wells and we want it now, for we want what we want when we want it.

Character of Hoofs.

Even to this day many blacksmiths possess the idea that the horse's hoof is "about horn" right to the core, says a writer in the Live Stock Journal. It is doubtless for this reason, or rather by reason of the lack of understanding of the anatomy of the structures underlying the hoof, that the shoeing of the horse is generally understood that within the thin-walled outer box of horn there are wonderfully sensitive blood and nerve-endowed tissues and working parts bearing an intimate adaptation one with the other, the better, will it be for the horse.

In the normally developed foot of the unshod colt the horny box or boot fits the inner foot perfectly. There is no pinching or squeezing anywhere, and the hoof gives perfect ground bearing and support to the leg, while serving to prevent undue concussion from contact with the ground. The large, elastic, insensitive outer frog, underlain by a fatty frog, serves as a cushion to prevent ill effects from concussion, bears upon the ground. The heels are wide, the bars strong and full, the sole somewhat concave, and the walls smooth, free from grooves, ridges, cracks, wrinkles and brittleness, and showing exterior varnish and evidence of healthy oiliness of the horn tissues.

Many things in connection with shoeing may cause lameness. They may be enumerated as follows: Rapping away the outer varnish layer of the hoof, cutting out the old sole and not allowing the imperfectly formed new horn to become exposed, cutting the frog, cutting out the bars, opening the heels by cutting a deep notch on each side of the frog, keeping red hot shoes too long in contact with the denuded sole, inattention to proper resetting of the shoes, keeping the horse too much confined upon dry board floor, depriving the animal of the necessary luxury of run at pasture, improper feeding and management, and, lastly, the frequent application of strong, drying, hoof-dressing substances.

Treatment should consist in as early as possible reestablishing natural conditions in the environment of the horse. Everything possible should be done to improve the general health of the horse, and he should be fed for the perfect repair of his tissues. That means plenty of oats and bran. Then he should have an opportunity to go on pasture, but where this cannot be done his hoof should be soaked in water frequently, and removal should be smeared with any simple non-stimulating or drying hoof dressing.

What's Wrong on the Farm?

The government commission which is investigating the condition of the farmers has elicited statements from more than one hundred in the Middle West, says Charles Dillon, writing in the current number of Harper's Weekly. Everywhere practically the same reply was heard. "The boys and girls complain." "They want to put in new ideas of farming," said a representative farmer. "They want all sorts of labor-saving machinery; they want books and papers; they want to quit work at sunset or sooner; they want to go to town every day. We either have to give them what they want or they leave." The telephone, rural free mail delivery and other innovations have done much to improve farm-life conditions, but until the farmer runs his business on up-to-date lines with the hours obtaining in other occupations, the exodus will continue, is the conclusion arrived at.

ABOUT CHECKS—

A bank is not liable to the holder of a check until it accepts or certifies the check, and a bank is not bound to make partial payment on a check if the drawer has not sufficient funds to his credit to make full payment.

If a depositor draws several checks aggregating more than he has standing to his credit, the bank pays them in the order of presentation, without regard to dates or numbers, until the depositor's credit is exhausted. The bank may refuse to honor checks subsequently presented.

Every check must be endorsed. The endorsement should be on the back of the check as near the left end as possible in order to make room for subsequent endorsements.

These are a few facts about checks not as generally known as they should be. The convenience and safety of having a checking account at THE NORWAY NATIONAL BANK OF NORWAY, MAINE, should also be known and appreciated by every farmer and business man in this section of the state.

IS THIS A SQUARE DEAL?

Frank Kimball the druggist will give! You Your Money Back if MI-O-NA Does Not Cure Dyspepsia.

That's the square kind of a square deal as every fair minded man knows.

But Frank Kimball can afford to make this offer because he knows that Mi-o-na tablets are a worthy stomach remedy, and that the makers will back up the generous offer.

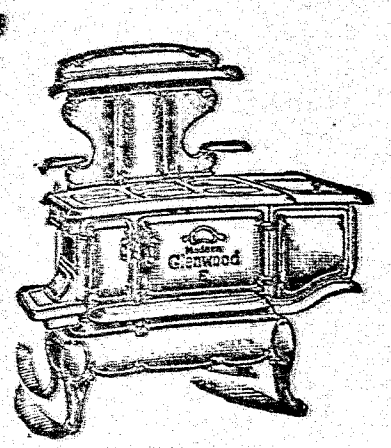

And so we say to all readers of the Norway Advertiser suffering or ailing with the stomach, try Mi-o-na. It has such a mighty and powerful influence on the stomach that it immediately refreshes and relieves, then invigorates and cures.

It strengthens the stomach walls, puts the stomach in such perfect condition that it can digest food without pain or other distressing symptoms. It cures by removing the cause, and it removes the cause 90 times to a hundred.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets only costs 50 cents, and relief will come in 24 hours.

"Mi-o-na tablets are truly great for anyone that has stomach trouble. I can not praise them too highly for what they have done for me."—Mrs. W. D. Bennett, Backsboro, Me.

IS THIS A SQUARE DEAL?

That's the surest kind of a square deal every fair minded man knows. But Frank Kimball can afford to make the offer because he knows that Mi-o-na tablets are a worthy stomach remedy, and that the makers will back up the generous offer.

And now, to all readers of the Norway Advertiser, suffering or ailing with stomach trouble, try Mi-o-na. It has such a mighty and powerful influence on the stomach that it immediately releases and relieves, then invigorates and cures.

It cleanses the stomach walls, puts the stomach in such perfect condition that it can digest food without pain or other distressing symptoms. It cures by removing the cause, and it removes the cause of times in a hundred.

A large box of Mi-o-na tablets only costs 40 cents, and relief will come in 24 hours.

"Mi-o-na tablets are truly great for anyone that has stomach trouble. I can't praise them too highly for what they have done for me."—Mrs. W. D. Bennett, Scarborough, Me. 4648

How to Carve a Turkey.

Not a bone of the bird should be scratched by the knife or touched by the fork. I shall take off the joints, slice the breast and cut out the oyster pieces and the carving knife will not so much as rub against a bone. I place the turkey on one side, and secure the leg and second joint with my fork. With one stroke I put the knife beneath it in such a position that when I raise the fork the path of the knife will clear the joint completely from the bird and separate the ligaments, with the bone showing firm and appearing without a blemish, put it on the edge of the platter and later I will divide it without any difficulty at all. Look at this second joint. There is not a bit of flesh left on the bird that should have come off in carving.

The next move is toward the wing. I get a good hold on that with the fork, and with the knife placed very carefully beneath it I lift the fork slowly and firmly while the knife does its work well.

The taking off of the joints I consider the most important part of the carving. A carver can spoil a dinner by not knowing his business. He can make every body feel uncomfortable and so sorry they came to the table by letting the bird fall half over the platter or seem perilously near landing in the guest of honor's lap.

Now I am ready to slice the breast. I lay the turkey on its back and put the knife in the hollow of the wing I cut through the thickness of the breast so when I slice it the pieces fall off abruptly I cut very thin and remove all the meat with the utmost care. When it is all done it is arranged nicely about the platter, the matter of giving each guest what he or she fancies is a most simple one.

Here I have come to the real test of every carver. It is time to remove the oyster piece. You will see it is whole and comes out with one stroke of the knife, leaving the bone without a fragment of covering and with nothing to show that the knife has been near the surface. The other side of course, gets the same sort of treatment, and the bird is stripped.

Regulation of "Tipping."

The mania for giving gratuities to hotel help has been pronounced irradicable. The decision has been handed down by the International Hotel Keepers congress, which has been in session for some time in Rome. Debate of the subject showed a practically unanimous sentiment that the greatest obstacle to the abolition of the practice was the unwillingness of a large class of travelers to surrender the privilege of rewarding special attendants of their servants. So the congress did its best toward the solution of a knotty problem. It resolved that, as the custom could not be abolished, it should be regulated. Therefore, when travelers desired it, hotel keepers might undertake to distribute tips, charging therefor 15 per cent. of bills not exceeding twenty francs, and 10 per cent. of higher accounts.

On the whole, this plan is not without its excellent points. It would throw the burden of "tipping" on those whose insistence maintains the custom; while those who consider that the servant should not be encouraged by special payment to distribute his services with partiality, would be relieved of the necessity of departing from their principle in order to obtain good service. Whether or not the scheme will prove acceptable to tip-giving travelers is another question.

Turkey Warmest Over.

Pieces of cold turkey or chicken may be warmed up with a little butter in a frying-pan, place it on a warm platter, surround it with pieces of small, thick slices of bread or biscuit halved, first dipping them in hot salted water; then place the platter in a warm oven with the door open. Have already made the following gravy to pour over all.

Into the frying pan put a large spoonful of butter, one or two cupfuls of milk, and any gravy that may be left over. Bring it to a boil; then add sufficient flour, wet in a little cold milk or water, to make it the consistency of cream. Season with salt, pepper and add a little of the dark meat chopped very fine. Let the sauce cook a few minutes; then pour over the biscuit and fowl. This will be found a really nice dish.

Talk to Your Horse.

Some one has given to the world a saying that sticks: "Talk to your cow as you would to a lady." There is a world of common sense in it. There is more; there is good sound religion in it. What else is it but the language of the Bible applied to animals? "A pleasant word to a horse in time of trouble has prevented many a disaster where the horse has learned that pleasant words mean a guaranty that danger from punishment is not imminent."

One morning a big muscular groom said to his employer: "I can't exercise that horse any more. He will bolt and run at anything he sees." The owner, a small man and ill at the time, asked the groom to lead the horse to the carriage; he drove a couple of miles, and then asked the groom to station such objects as the horse was afraid of. This was done and the horse was driven by them quietly, back and forth, with loose lines slapping on his back.

The whole secret was in a voice that frightened at everything he saw that he supposed the horse would fear. The groom went to the horse like a silent messenger. Then came the punishing pull of the lines, with clanking and the whip. Talk to your horse as to your sweet heart.

A Dangerous Cough

Wife of Newark, Ohio, Man Had Symptoms of Consumption. Was Badly Run Down and Reduced in Flesh.

RESTORED TO HEALTH BY VINOL

"About two years ago my wife was in very poor health. She had no appetite, was much reduced in flesh, and for three months had a very bad cough, with all the symptoms of consumption. Vinol was recommended and she began taking it; before the first bottle was used her appetite was better, and she was improving in health; by the time she had taken three bottles the cough was gone. She is still taking Vinol and cannot say too much in its praise." N. L. Stebbins, Newark, Ohio.

The reason that Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it is the only preparation that contains tonic iron together with all of the healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cods livers, but no oil.

Without hesitation we proclaim our faith in Vinol for chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis and as a body-builder and strength creator for old people.

Anyway, if you try it and it does no good we will refund your money on demand. Frank P. Stone, Druggist, Norway.

ALBANY.

Death of "Ann" Betsey Hutchinson.

Mrs. Sumner Hutchinson, known to the people for miles around as "Ann Betsey," died suddenly at her long time home here, Monday afternoon, the 16th, after an illness of less than a day. She was 85 years of age and leaves many relatives in and around Boston.

Mrs. Hutchinson and her husband were the oldest and longest married couple in this township. She made her home with her daughter, Mrs. William Herriek. She leaves four children.

Mr. Hutchinson, years ago, cleared the forest where his farmhouse home now stands, and with his own hands erected the buildings and laid out the farm. His brother, William Hutchinson, was something of an inventor, and during his long residence in Gorham, N. H., built the famous suspension bridge that led across the Androscoggin to his lead mine in the mountain just beyond.

Mrs. Hutchinson was born and bred in North Norway and as a bride went to live in the house where she died.

SOUTH HIRAM.

Walker's Club of Ten met with Lillian Wadsworth.

Mrs. Chapman has gone to Brighton with a car of live stock.

Mrs. Vesta Walker is again very sick. Her mother, Mrs. John Clark of Cornish is with her.

Mrs. Mabel Stanley has resumed her duties as teacher in Precinct B, Porter, after a vacation of two weeks.

Several from this place attended the grange fair at Cornish. Although the day was stormy the grangers realized nearly $64.

The members of Charter Oak grange met with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitton at their home on North Main street and enjoyed a circle supper and social.

The oyster supper and entertainment given by Representative elect O. L. Stanley at Chellis hall, was well patronized by the citizens of this place. It was, in fact, as advertised, "a Republican jubilee."

The incorporation of Kezar Falls village including this peaceful little hamlet is the subject now being discussed by our citizens. We understand the matter is to be brought before the Legislature the coming winter.

The Obituaries at Denmark.

The sad and lamentable taking off of this worthy young man, Harold A. Jewett, created a profound impression at his old home where evidently he was much beloved, as was evinced at the funeral Wednesday, Nov. 18th, conducted by Rev. S. T. Livingston, of First Congregational church, Bridgton. The music was rendered with feeling, the selections being, Some sweet day, Nearer my God, and When the veil is lifted. The quartet consisted of Mrs. Fred Sanborn, Mrs. George Gray, Alfonso Hilton and Alfred Belcher.

There were many flowers from friends in Portland, South Paris, the home neighborhood and elsewhere.

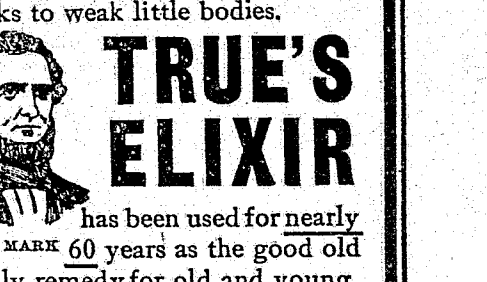

The deceased was 25 years of age, a son of A. C. Jewett. The family at the home, the old Jewett homestead, comprise father, mother, sister and grandmother. The place has been held in the family name since the time of A. C. Jewett's grandfather, Harold's great-grandfather. Mr. Jewett's living there is over 80. She is Mrs. Louisa Jewett, widow of Joseph Jewett, who died 23 years ago. They were married 59 years ago.

Ralph Burnham Cummings, son of Rev. C. S. Cummings of Auburn, is winning a great reputation as foot ball manager and has been chosen captain of the Bates 1904 team. The write-up says of him: "Cummings has been the hardest worker on the Bates team this season. As an end he is hard to beat, having speed and headwork combined with a fierce aggressiveness that has bowled many a big fellow over on the team. He is a hard worker just when the big end thought he had a play smashed. It is said that Cummings had a prominent part in the generalship of the game, when Bates trimmed Bowdoin, and if that be true his quality of generalship will be of good use next year."

There has been some discussion in the newspapers recently concerning the advisability of amending the Constitution so that the gubernatorial election shall take place in November rather than September. This change would, of course, obviate the necessity of two elections in a Presidential year. We know of no reason that can be advanced against such a change and many are in favor of it.

The School Issue.

The article printed in last week's ADVERTISER on the "school issue" would seem to imply that there was a great wreck in the path of learning up at Bryan's Pond. Such is not the case, however, and no condition exists here that would seem to warrant the outbreak put up in that communication, neither was there any occasion for this simple affair to have been trailed before the public. Now that the matter has gone so far it may be proper for the school board to offer a few words of consolation, and in their view of the matter, let it be known that they bore no malice against the principal, Mr. Smith, and in their capacity as committee regret that he was not able to carry the school through and make it a success.

Two hearings were held at the suggestion of Mr. Smith, and at both meetings his evidence was too shaky to justify the board or the State Superintendent in sustaining or retaining him in the position.

From the statement of his own case cannot the conclusion be drawn easily that the whole trouble originated from the department of Mr. Smith himself? Who is ready to deny this, or bring proof even from the teacher himself in contradiction, and his work in the schoolroom ought to substantiate something towards vindicating himself. Furthermore, the reflections contained in this article thrown at the parents and scholars in this community are wrong and without foundation. There is no such condition here, and the attempt to discredit the whole neighborhood to build up Mr. Smith's case will not go far.

Taking the whole matter under consideration one point shows plainly, that if Mr. Smith had met the obligation and requirements really necessary for a teacher to have he probably would not at the hearing have had that "feeling akin to Happy Holligan's when finding himself face to face with the cannibals."
